

Privacy policy

We hate spam, probably more than most. As such we go out of our way to make sure none of your information ends up in mailing lists or third party marketing databases. So we simply do not allow it. We do not use newsletters or email campaigns.

What information does the GGJ collect and how does the GGJ use it?

You may visit and use many features of our site without any registration at all, however, in order to participate in the Global Game Jam, we require you create a user account. When you register, we will collect mandatory contact information (your name, email address, and information about your profile). Your credit card information will never be collected.

You may have your information removed at any time by deleting it out of your own profile, or have your account removed by contacting info@globalgamejam.org.

Does the GGJ use "cookies"?

Cookies are bits of electronic information that a web site can transfer to a visitor's hard drive to help tailor and keep records of his or her visit to the site. Cookies allow web site operators to better customize visits to the site to the visitor's individual preferences. The use of cookies is standard on the Internet and many web sites use them. Although most web browsers automatically accept cookies, you can usually change your browser to prevent or notify you whenever you are sent a cookie. This gives you the chance to decide whether or not to accept it. Even without accepting a cookie, you can still access most of the features on the site. The site uses cookies to indicate logged-in status and provide its visitors with a better experience at the site, and to save your password so you don't have to re-enter it each time you visit the site. If you would like more information about cookies, we suggest you visit <http://www.cookiecentral.com>.

You can reach us by the various means outlined on our Contact Us page.
